"The automobile showed evidences of previous trouble," said Davenport.

This afternoon Orange county's grand jury began its work. The inquisitorial body was completed this morning, and at 1 o'clock the foreman was sworn into charge of the nine-teen men of whom he is one.

In his charge to the grand jury, Judge W. H. Thomas advised the body that it ought not to deal in criticism unless ready to do more than criticise. In fact, the charge is that the grand jury, if it has criticism of consequence, should say nothing unless the offense or condition is sufficient for accusation or indictment.

The judge also instructed the grand jury that the law does not give it the right to say anything it pleases. A grand jury has no more right to commit slander and libel than has a

WORK BEFORE LEGISLATURE

With the opening of the forty-first session of the legislature less than sixty days away, discussion has already begun of proposed legislative enactments.

Among the most important of these is the proposition to eliminate partisanship from state politics as proposed by Governor Johnson during the recent campaign. The measure would extend the non-partisanship, which now obtains in all county offices, to the state ticket from the governor down. Non-partisan designation of candidates for state offices already applies to the judiciary and the superintendent of public instruction, the recent election having been the first at which this feature became operative.

The shortening of the ballot as proposed may be done by reducing the number of elective state officers and placing in the hands of the governor the appointment of such officers as the secretary of state, attorney general, surveyor general and school superintendent, and possibly treasurer.

The experience of last Tuesday's election when the election officials worked from 48 to 60 hours counting the ballots, means the introduction of bills to expedite the count.

In addition to the shortening of the ballot, it is proposed to hold separate elections on initiative and referendum measures and constitutional amendments. It is also proposed that ballots be counted at intervals during election day.

A measure for the establishment of a state bureau of elections at Sacramento to distribute election ballots, attend to nomination petitions and to canvass the vote, is also proposed.

Now that the courts have held that the state motor vehicle act, fixing a speed limit of twenty-five miles for automobiles, supersedes the more stringent regulations of urban districts, bills will be introduced amending the existing law with the object of prescribing a less dangerous speed limit for travel within cities and

Many fish and game bills, looking to the reduction of bag limits, and changing and reducing the open season for fishing and hunting, will be introduced. There will be a bill to stop all shooting of game until all game can be marketed.

Among other measures will be bills for river improvement and for the creation of a state mining inspector.
